Think of the advantage of having a hospital, with every modern and up-to-date convenience. There is no telling which of us will next need it. We will be saved the expense and trouble of going somewhere else. Pendleton has to thank the Sisters of St. Francis, who by their energies in planning, constructing and furnishing it. It is a credit to Pendleton and Umatilla county. The very least we can do is to patronize their fair, which will be in the new Bowman building every evening next week, excepting Monday. There will be plenty of music.

While you are enjoying this beautiful winter weather, you will find the means of expressing your thankfulness by visiting the Sisters' fair for the benefit of St. Anthony's hospital, at the new Bowman building every evening next week except Monday. Don't forget it. You will be doing yourself and someone else good at the same time and there will be music every evening.

The best $2.50 shoe on earth for men or women can be found at the Peoples Warehouse. For comfort, for style and for durability these have no equal, but as good a bargain as it is we will have music this Saturday evening from 7 until 9.

Mrs. Stella Burson, a member of the local Salvation Army corps at Bellingham, has disappeared leaving five little children without food or clothing. She left a rambling note saying that she would drown herself in the bay.

LIFE OF THE BUFFALO.

Texas Cattleman Says They Live to Be 100 Years Old.

What is the average life of a buffalo—who knows? says the Ft. Worth Record.

Charles Goodnight, the veteran cattleman, who has the unique distinction of being the owner of the only buffalo ranch in the world, was unable to answer the question when it was asked him at the Delaware hotel last night.

Mr. Goodnight, in company with another prominent Texas cattleman, was seated in the lobby of the above named hotel about 10 o'clock last night. The conversation turned to the subject of raising and breeding buffalo. Mr. Goodnight explained fully all he knew concerning the breeding of the animal, but when some one asked him "How old does a buffalo get to be?" he hesitated a moment, then slowly answered: "Well, I really don't know."

"I do not believe that any living person knows just how old a buffalo gets to be," continued Mr. Goodnight. "I have referred to encyclopedias, magazines and natural histories, but I have never been able to find anything in regard to the age of the buffalo."

"On my ranch up the Denver I have some buffalo cows that are still good breeders at the age of 28 years. That leads me to believe that the buffalo lives to a very ripe old age—say 60 to 75 years. Any animal that can calve at the age of 28 years surely lives to be a great deal older than that age. The buffalo may live to be 100 years old—no one can say for sure. In the old days I have seen specimens that appeared to be a thousand. I am quite an old man myself, but I have not lived long enough to answer 'How old is a buffalo?'"

Charles Goodnight, who is the only man in the world who makes a business of raising the American bison, has a ranch stocked with those animals situated on the Denver, this side of Amarillo. It has long been Mr. Goodnight's desire to successfully cross the Durham and Polled Angus cattle with the pure bred buffalo.

"I now have 73 Polled Angus cows with calf which were bred to a full-blooded buffalo bull, and I am looking for some very good results. If I can have 20 of these calves I will consider myself a rich man. Last year I had 40 cows with calf from buffalo bulls. Out of this forty I saved just eight calves. The hardness of the buffalo, mixed with the beef qualities of the Polled Angus or Durham cattle will make the finest range animals on earth."
